

NEWSLETTER REPORT

College of nursing AIIMS Rishikesh in collaboration with Indian Association of Neonatal Nurses IANN organized two workshops on Improving Newborn Care through Simulation and Care of Sick and High Risk Newborns on 10 & 11th March 2022 in college of Nursing AIIMS Rishikesh. There were total 85 participants from various institutes of Uttarakhand including Doon Institute of medical sciences, Combined PG Institute of medical sciences and research, Max super-speciality hospital Dehradun, nursing tutors and nursing officers working in AIIMS Rishikesh participated in the workshop. Workshops were inaugurated on 10th March 2022 in presence of Professor Manoj Gupta AIIMS Dean Academic. Welcome address by Professor Smriti Arora, Principal, College of nursing. Keynote address by Dr. Manju Vatsa, Founder President IANN, Guest address by Professor Sripna Basu, HOD Neonatology, Chief guest Address by Professor Manoj Gupta, Dean Academics and Vote of Thanks by Mrs Malar Kodi S, Assistant Professor, College of Nursing AIIMS Rishikesh. On 10th of March 2022 Simulation based learning, steps involved in quality improvement cycle and POCQI model were discussed. On 11th of March 2022, lecture and discussion on the care of sick and high risk neonates which involved management of hypothermia, KMC, Neonatal sepsis, Transport of sick and high risk neonates and hands on practice on monitoring SPO₂, RR, CRT, Glucose monitoring, Dosage calculations, IV fluid therapy was done. Dr. Smriti Arora Principal College of Nursing AIIMS Rishikesh emphasized that it is necessary to organize such workshops for efficient care of newborn babies. The workshops were completed with valedictory and certification distribution to the participants.

